

Entry-to-Practice Competency Profile for Registered Psychotherapists

Philosophy, Assumptions and Uses of the Competency Profile

The competency profile lists the competencies that must be possessed by individuals entering the profession for the first time, in order for them to practise safely, effectively and ethically across a variety of practice settings. “Entering the profession for the first time” signifies registration following completion of entry-to-practice requirements.

- A competency is the ability to achieve a specified level of proficiency in a practice activity, and results from specific skills, knowledge and judgement.
- Entry-to-practice competency is the ability to achieve entry-level proficiency.
- Entry-level proficiency is defined as follows:
 - In the ordinary practice of the profession, the entry-level Registered Psychotherapist (RP) calls upon competencies in an informed manner based upon the practice context, and does not normally require immediate supervision or direction. The entry-level RP monitors responses and reacts appropriately, and works within a reasonable timeframe, towards the achievement of outcomes consistent with the generally accepted standards in the profession.
 - When dealing with unusual, difficult to resolve and complex situations, the entry-level RP recognizes situations which are beyond his/her professional capacity and addresses them in discussion with his/her supervisor and/or through referral to a practitioner who is appropriately qualified.

The competency profile establishes minimum requirements, and creates a foundation upon which to build. The possession at entry-to-practice of additional competencies, and higher levels of proficiency, is encouraged.

Following entry-to-practice, a member’s competencies will evolve based upon work experience and continuing professional development. Specifically:

- New competencies may be added.
- Levels of proficiency in competencies that are regularly utilized may increase.
- Levels of proficiency in competencies that are not regularly utilized may decrease.

The competency profile informs the registration requirements for new registrants entering the profession for the first time. Additionally, it informs the requirements for the registration of experienced workers, as well as the College’s ongoing expectations for members such as its standards of practice and quality assurance program.

Principles Behind the Competency Profile

The competency profile is constructed to serve users both within and outside the profession. The terminology is generic, and should be interpreted in the context of professional self-regulation in Ontario and in a manner relevant to the therapist's orientation, modality and practice.

The individual competencies within the profile should be thought of as an interdependent array of abilities which an individual brings to the workplace, and uses according to the situation at hand. Competencies are not used in isolation.

The profile does not represent a protocol, or a listing of what the practitioner must do in practice; rather, it represents what the practitioner must be able to do when necessary.

In any practice situation the order of use, and the significance, of the competencies will vary according to context.
